HEATERS

There are times when instant heat, in one or two rooms, is what you want, rather than activating your entire central heating system - this is where the SuperSer excels. Radiant and catalytic models are available. They're simple and very economical to use, either early in the morning or in a conservatory for example, heat is instantly available at the press of a button. The SUPERSER Catalytic burns without a flame, does not produce carbon monoxide and has lower touch temperatures - which means safe and economical heat at the touch of a fingertip! Both models are finished in a modern silver streamlined look and retain popular features such as easy-glide castors to help move effortlessly from room to room.
